

Contents

Acknowledgments

Part 1 Theoretical Previews

1.1 Ralf Vogt           Zeitgeist and Trauma Memory

1.2 Winja Lutz         The Reality of False Memories

- The History of the False Memory Syndrome Foundation
- Research paradigms
- Shaw and Porter's Rich-False-Memories Study
- Loftus' Lost-In-The-Mall Study
- Conclusions

1.3 Ralf Vogt           The SPIM 30 Concept of Beseelbare Symbolization Media to Resolve Severe Transference Problems in Dissociative Trauma Disorders

- Introduction
- Exploring Transference Media for the Treatment of Trauma
- Further Fields of Application of Beseelbare Therapy Media and Outlook

1.4 Ralf Vogt           The Previous SPIM-30-Orientation on the Dissociative Trauma Memory

1.5 Ralf Vogt           The Psychodynamic Transformation of Factual, Symbolic and Atmospheric Data in the Process of Experiencing and Remembering Psychotrauma

- Case vignettes of how traumatic data are coded in memory
- Case vignettes on how trauma data are decoded in the mind
- Conclusions from all data conversion processes

1.6 Ralf Vogt           Classification of Psychodynamic Data Qualities of Memories in Dissociative Psychotrauma Clients

Part 2 Various Clinical Contributions to the Analysis and Treatment of Trauma Memory

2.1 Renée Potgieter Marks   The Frozen Child: The Process of Memory Recall in Children with Complex Trauma and Dissociation

- The Case Example of Jake
- Powerful Body Responses and No Memory
- Beseelbare Objects
- Memory Recall
- Activation and Integration

- The Case Example of Lee
- Summary

2.2 Valerie Sinason                      Time and Memory and DID

- Introduction
- Categories of Dissociative Dialogues
- Other Societal Reasons that Impact Memory
- The Role of Fairbairn
- The Moral Defence - Work with Children and Adults with an Intellectual Disability
- Final Statement

2.3 Joanne H. Twombly                      Case of a Woman with Complex DID and a History of Inadequate Treatment

2.4 Kevin J. Connors                      On Memory and Dissociative Process

- Introduction
- The Case Example of Andrew
- Implications for Therapy

2.5 Irina Vogt                      Remembering Prenatal and Birth Trauma – A Case Example – DESNOS

2.6 Ralf Vogt                      The Shamed Prince – A Case Example – DESNOS

- First Phase of Therapy
- Middle Phase of Therapy
- Interpretation
- Last Phase of Therapy
- Interpretation

2.7 Ralf Vogt                      The Dissociative Late Discovery – A Case Example – DDNOS

- First Interpretational Framework and Therapy Phase
- Middle Phase of Therapy
- Interpretation
- Last Therapy Phase
- Interpretation

2.8 Ralf Vogt                      The Weak Troublemaker – A Case Example – DID

- First Phase of Therapy
- Middle Phase of Therapy
- Last or Third Phase of Therapy
- Interpretation

Part 3 New Research Results on Trauma Memory

3.1 Ralf Vogt            Pilot Study Excerpts on Trauma Memory through a Client Survey

- Preliminary note
- Study Excerpts
- Summary

Part 4 New Contributions to the Treatment Model SPIM 30

4.1 Ralf Vogt            Neurophysiological and Psychodynamic Regulation Stages of Interaction and their Implications for Therapeutic Relationship Building and Memory Work

4.2 Ralf Vogt            Attachment-Oriented Reform Approaches for Psychotraumatology

- Trauma Attachment Styles
- Victim Attachment Style (VA)
- Perpetrator Attachment Style (PA)
- The Oscillating Victim Perpetrator Attachment Style (OscA)

Part 5 Appendix

5.1 Selection of photographs showing SPIM-30-Settings

5.2 Author Index

5.3 List of References

5.4 Accessing SPIM 30